A Goal Behind

THIS evening we stage our first senior home match of 1972, and we could scarcely have been given a more important or attractive fixture.

When we played Chelsea, our most welcome visitors this evening, in the first leg of the Football League Cup Semi-final at Stamford Bridge on the Wednesday before Christmas, we lost the match by 3—2.

That result was a big disappointment to us after leading 2—1 at a late stage of the game. It means we now start a goal behind, and must strive our utmost to take full advantage of staging this second leg on our own ground.

If the aggregate score is level after 90 minutes' play tonight, a half-hour's extra time will be played.

This is only the fifth season in which Spurs have participated in the League Cup, yet we are engaged in our third Semi-final. It's a fine record in the competition, and if we can repeat last season's triumph by winning the trophy, Spurs will become the first club to carry it off twice.

That, perhaps, is looking too far ahead. Our immediate task is to wipe out Chelsea's lead from the first leg. The prize is a Wembley Final against the winners of the West Ham United versus Stoke City Semi-final replay, which is also being played this evening, on Sheffield Wednesday's ground.

Our previous League Cup Semi-finals on this ground were, of course, against Bristol City last season, and against Arsenal in 1968-69.

We beat City 2—0 after extra time to qualify for Wembley, but a 1—1 draw with Arsenal left the latter winners of the tie on a 2—1 aggregate.

CHELSEA'S PATH

Here is Chelsea's path to the Semi-final of the League Cup, with goalscorers:

Round 2	Plymouth Argyle (home) (Hollins, Houseman) .	2—0
Round 3	Nottingham Forest (away) (Webb) . . .	1—1
	Replay (home) (Osgood, Baldwin) . . .	2—1
Round 4	Bolton Wanderers (home) (Hudson) . . .	1—1
	Replay (away) (Baldwin 3, Hollins 2, Cooke) .	6—0
Round 5	Norwich City (away) (Osgood)	1—0

The first leg of the Semi-final is dealt with in detail elsewhere in this programme.

Chelsea are past winners of the League Cup. They defeated Leicester City by an aggregate score of 3—2 in season 1964–65. The Final was then a two-legged affair, staged on the grounds of the competing clubs.

The gate for the tie at Stamford Bridge was 20,690, and 26,957 spectators watched the second leg at Leicester. Those gate figures alone underline the tremendous strides made by the League Cup in public interest in a comparatively short span of time.

TONIGHT'S VISITORS

CHELSEA

CHELSEA were last here for a League match in mid-March last year, and only one player in their team that day has since left them.

He is Keith Weller, our own former forward, who scored Chelsea's goal that day, but was transferred to Leicester City last September.

Most of the other players who opposed us here in the League last season are expected to be wearing the Chelsea blue tonight. One newcomer of note, however, is Chris Garland, who wore the No. 7 shirt in the first leg at Stamford Bridge, and scored the second of Chelsea's three goals.

Garland is a Bristol-born player, who was signed from Bristol City in September.

The other Chelsea players are familiar to most Spurs supporters. Ron Harris, the Chelsea captain and full-back, is Hackney born and a product of the nursery ranks at Stamford Bridge.

Harris, a former England Under-23 player, has been a professional with Chelsea since 1961.

EIRE INTERNATIONAL

Full-back Paddy Mulligan is an Eire international. He was born in Dublin, and played for Shamrock Rovers before joining Chelsea in 1969. Mulligan spent one year in America with Boston Beacons.

John Hollins, defender or midfield player, is an English international. He was born at Guildford, developed through Chelsea's junior ranks, and has been a full professional with the club since 1963.

John Dempsey, usual wearer of the No. 5 shirt, was signed from Fulham in January 1969 in the deal that took forward Barry Lloyd in the opposite direction. Dempsey was born in London, but is an Eire international by parental qualification.

David Webb, who is expected to fill a defensive position, is an East Londoner from Stratford. Webb started his career with Orient after a spell as a junior with West Ham United.

Orient transferred Webb to Southampton in March, 1966, and he made the further move to Chelsea in 1968. In an emergency on Boxing Day, he kept goal against Ipswich.

EYE-CATCHER

Peter Osgood, Chelsea's English international centre-forward, is a real eye-catcher. A Windsor man, he ranks with the outstanding strikers in British football today. He has been a professional with Chelsea since September, 1964.

Alan Hudson is another of Chelsea's big names. He is a key man in the midfield and attacking area. A former England Under-23 player, he was born in Chelsea and graduated through their apprentice ranks.

Winger Peter Houseman is another local. He comes from Battersea, and joined Chelsea as a junior after leaving school in Wandsworth. He has been a full professional since 1962.

Midfield man Charlie Cooke is a great Chelsea favourite. A Scottish international, Cooke was born in Fifeshire, and made a big name with Aberdeen. From Aberdeen he moved to Dundee, who transferred him to Chelsea in April, 1966.

FROM ARSENAL

Tommy Baldwin, who came on as substitute during the second half of the first leg, was signed from Arsenal five seasons ago.

Baldwin, who has a good goalscoring record this season, is a North-easterner from Gateshead, who started with Arsenal in 1962.

Injury kept Peter Bonetti, Chelsea's English international goalkeeper, out of the team against us in the first leg, but John Phillips, his deputy, is no stranger to this ground.

Phillips, who played against us in the League here last season, is a Shrewsbury man, who started with the Shrewsbury Town club. He moved to Aston Villa, and was transferred to Chelsea in August, 1970.

Chelsea 1971-72. Back row, left to right: P. Bonetti, A. Hudson, P. Feely, I. Hutchinson, D. Webb, J. Dempsey, M. Droy, D. Smethurst (now Millwall), S. Houston, J. Boyle, J. Hollins, P. Mulligan and J. Phillips. Front row, left to right: M. Hinton (inset), K. Weller (now Leicester City), P. Osgood, T. Baldwin, R. Harris, P. Houseman, C. Cooke and E. McCreadie.

MAN IN CHARGE

The referee this evening is Mr. David Smith of Stonehouse, Gloucestershire.

At one time a goalkeeper with Stonehouse in the Western League, he took up refereeing in the Stroud and District League in season 1949–50, and graduated through Gloucestershire amateur leagues to the Western League.

Mr. Smith was a Football League linesman from 1954 to 1958, and has been a League referee since 1959. This is his fourth season on the F.I.F.A. List. He has refereed three internationals, including France v. Sweden, a World Cup qualifying game.

His other big matches include the 1964 F.A. Amateur Cup Final between Enfield and Crook Town; the League Cup Final (first leg) between West Ham United and West Bromwich Albion in 1966; and the F.A. Cup Semi-finals between Liverpool and Chelsea (1965) and Everton v. Leeds (1968).

Married, with one son, Referee Smith is a chargehand linesman for the Midlands Electricity Board. He is secretary of the Stroud and District League.

His last match on this ground was our League fixture with Crystal Palace in September.

THE FIRST LEG . . .

A LARGE number of spectators here tonight will have seen the first leg of this Football League Cup Semi-final at Stamford Bridge on that wet evening the Wednesday before Christmas. And the facts of that memorable game, given wide coverage by Press, Television and Radio, will be known to almost everyone else who reads this programme.

As Christmas has intervened, however, and both Spurs and Chelsea have since played two League matches, we feel a few details and comments on the first leg are not out of place.

The match could not be described as a classic from a purely footballing point of view. With Wembley almost within shouting distance, tension always creeps in at the expense of the soccer crafts.

Nevertheless, it was an exciting, eventful match, and the crowd certainly had value for money.

From our own point of view, the result was, of course, extremely disappointing. We held a 2—1 lead until the 74th minute, and a winning start for tonight's second leg would have been of tremendous value.

GARLAND'S HEADER

Alas for our hopes. Chris Garland headed through from a right-wing corner, and Chelsea were level. That goal set the scene for a tremendous finish.

Terry Naylor

Chelsea put the pressure on, but a fine burst and shot by Ralph Coates gave John Phillips a spot of trouble before John Hollins drove home the winner from the penalty spot after the ball had struck Terry Naylor's hand.

It was a hard blow from fate for Terry. He had scored his first-ever senior goal in his first League Cup-tie when he equalised from a pass by Ralph Coates in the 50th minute. What should have been a night of happy memories for him turned sour in that split-second in the penalty area with only a few minutes left to play.

Most of the incident was packed into the second half. There was a lot of midfield play in the first half, and it was not until the 17th minute, when Mike England dashed up to shoot wide, that Spurs threatened Chelsea's goal.

HIT BAR

Spurs escaped when Chelsea hit the bar, but in a counter-attack Coates finished a fine run with a rising shot that Phillips saved.

The flashpoint of the first half came in the 39th minute, when Peter Osgood took advantage of a tangle in our defence to hook the ball into an unguarded net. It was the last thing we wanted to see, but we must compliment Osgood on the skill with which he seized his chance.

The goal that put Spurs in front came within two minutes of Naylor's equaliser. It was struck with typical power and precision by Martin Chivers.

Then came the moment that Cyril Knowles will never forget. His failure to either clear the ball or play it back to Pat Jennings enabled Garland to nip in for a shot. Happily for us, and particularly Cyril, Garland hammered it wide.

OFF THE HOOK

Another goal at that stage and Spurs would have been in a commanding position. Chivers had one shot saved by Phillips and another passed over.

We then let Chelsea off the hook, and now start tonight one goal in arrears. With ground advantage in the second leg, it is now up to our players to exploit this factor to the full.

The human element plays its part in football as in all things. Errors were made at Stamford Bridge, but a lot of hard work has since been put in in training with the object of producing the right result tonight.

The teams in the first leg were:

CHELSEA: Phillips; Mulligan, Harris, Hollins, Dempsey, Webb, Garland, Cooke (replaced by Baldwin in 61st min.), Osgood, Hudson and Houseman.

SPURS: Jennings; Evans, Knowles, Coates, England, Beal, Pratt, Naylor, Chivers, Peters and Pearce. Phil Holder stood by as substitute.

Referee: Mr. John Homewood of Sunbury-on-Thames.

ALEC LINDSAY

It is with the deepest regret that we have learned of the death in a Dundee hospital, just before Christmas, of Alec Lindsay, who gave splendid service to Spurs from 1919 to 1930.

Many of our older supporters will have a clear cut mental picture of the industrious Lindsay, shirt usually worn outside his shorts, chasing even the remotest goal-scoring chance.

Alec shirked nothing, and often he had the worst of a tackle on the ground or a collision in mid-air. The injuries he received would fill a medical handbook, and an ominous-looking knee-pad was as much a part of Lindsay as his Scottish accent.

Lindsay played for Raith Rovers before signing for Spurs, but bad luck struck soon after his arrival here. He had a cartilage operation in 1920, but within two years was an established first-team player.

TOP SCORER

Alec's best season was 1923–24, when he missed only three League matches, and finished among the top goalscorers in the First Division. And that was under the old offside rule, when forwards had much more difficulty in keeping onside.

Lindsay played in more than 200 League matches for Spurs, and after proving his versatility in a number of forward positions, he settled at wing-half.

In 1929–30, his last season as a Spurs player, Lindsay made 11 appearances in the League side. The last was in an eventful Second Division match away to West Bromwich Albion on Easter Monday of that season.

Lindsay played at left-half behind a wing partnership of Jimmy Smy and Walter Bellamy. Spurs lost the match 4—3. He also played left-half in both matches that season against Chelsea, our visitors tonight.

After leaving Spurs in the summer of 1930, he spent a season with the old Thames club, then in the Third Division (South), before returning to Scotland. He had lived in the Dundee district for many years prior to his death last month, and was a spectator when we played Dundee in a friendly match at Dens Park in 1966.

STUBBORN PALACE

Crystal Palace 1, Spurs 1

Crystal Palace put up a stubborn fight against us in the League at Selhurst Park on Saturday.

We had won our two previous League matches at Selhurst, but the reorganised Palace side showed a lot of spirit and determination, and fought back strongly after conceding a goal just after half-time.

On this showing Palace are a difficult team to play against, and visitors to Selhurst will find goalscoring no easy matter.

That was our experience against the South Londoners, whose equaliser halfway through the second half from Gerry Queen gave them their first-ever goal against us in League football.

The goal that gave Spurs the lead was struck home in convincing fashion by Martin Chivers, who moved on to a short free-kick by Martin Peters. These two players were prominent in what was our best move in the entire game.

Martin Chivers

Although it produced nothing for the record books, the move is worth retracing. Peters glided a superb through pass to Chivers, who cracked a great shot goalwards.

John Jackson, the Palace goalkeeper, flung himself at the ball to concede a corner. The pass, shot and save were all absolutely first-class, and as that incident happened in the 38th minute, Palace must have felt relieved to be level at half-time.

It is only fair to Palace to record that Willie Wallace had hit our crossbar earlier in the game, and there was an occasion when Philip Beal came to our rescue with a great tackle on Queen when our goal was in danger.

There had, in fact, been more action around our own goalmouth than at the Palace end. It was not a game in which there were many scoring chances, although both goalkeepers had enough to do clearing crosses and coping with goalmouth situations.

From our point of view a draw was a satisfactory result, especially in view of our home defeat by West Ham on the previous Monday. Our last three away matches in the League have yielded four points.

CRYSTAL PALACE: Jackson; Goodwin, Wall, Kellard, McCormick, Blyth, Craven, Queen, Wallace, Taylor and Tambling.

SPURS: Jennings; Evans, Knowles, Coates, England, Beal, Pratt, Perryman, Chivers, Peters and Gilzean. Terry Naylor stood by as substitute.

"DOUBLE" OVER ARSENAL

Spurs Res. 1, Arsenal Reserves 0

The Reserves completed the Combination double over Arsenal here on Saturday, having won 3—0 at Highbury in September.

The only goal of the match was scored early in the first half by Ray Clarke. Roger Morgan floated a free-kick from the left towards the far post, John Cutbush headed the ball back and Clarke's head did the rest.

Both Phil Holder and Roy Woolcott came close to scoring, but this was a match of limited chances with much of the play in midfield.

Spurs were worthy winners, but there was little between the teams. It was a dour game in which Barry Daines had little to do apart from making two good saves from Peter Marinello.

Team: Daines; Kinnear, Want, Dillon, Collins, Peck, Cutbush, Clarke, Woolcott, Holder and Morgan.

This victory was the sixth in succession by the Reserves in the Combination.

FULHAM BEATEN

Fulham Youth 0, Spurs Youth 2

The Youth team maintained their grip at the head of the S.E. Counties League, Div. 1 table by beating Fulham at Putney on Saturday.

The first goal was headed into the net by Chris Jones from a free-kick on the right by Bobby Scarth midway through the first half. The kick was awarded after Scarth had been brought down.

The other Spurs goal was netted early in the second half. After Scarth had crossed the ball the goalkeeper pushed it on to the bar, and Jones scored in the scramble that followed.

Spurs were good winners, but it was not a game to enthuse over.

Team: P. Matthews; Anderson, G. Hayzelden, J. Field, Osgood, R. Walker, Scarth, Margerrison, Mabee, Clapton and Jones, C.

Geoff Hayzelden, making his first appearance in the Youth team, came through well.
